Dk. b or br. c, (May), by Curlin - Bullville Belle, by Holy Bull. Trainer Brown Chad C. Bred by Fox Straus KY (Ky).

CONNECT off the inside throughout, took up position in midpack, departed the backstretch from the four path, began to close the gap after completing three-quarters, got cued up challenging as the widest of the front runners heading into the stretch, emerged at the eighth pole locked in a spirited tussle with the runner up, raced heads apart with the nemesis from that station onward, underwent a series of brushes with DIVINING ROD beginning approximately a sixteenth from the wire, with both him and the aforementioned rival bearing some responsibility for the contact, showed gameness and got the head down in time at the finish line to prevail. DIVINING ROD secured a prominent position after appearing to come away without apparent mishap, stepped onto the turn from the three path, added himself to the pace picture by hitching up to the front runners at the five-sixteenths marker, had the winner join the fracas soon afterwards, was between rivals turning into the stretch, forged to the narrowest of leads during the ensuing furlong, began to drift out slightly, as the winner was likewise shifting from the opposite direction, in the vicinity of the sixteenth pole, dug in stubbornly but had the verdict snatched away in the last jump by getting out-bobbed. REALM kept watch on the disputed pace from the pocket, was asked to pick it up leaving the five-sixteenths pole, swung five wide into the stretch under a drive, finished well enough to grab the show award, although never posing a danger to the top two finishers. WAR STORY began the run around the bend from the two path, was maneuvered out into path five from upper to midstretch, missed out on third. ANCHOR DOWN worked his way to a narrow advantage soon after the start, got guided over to the inside route, showed the way, pulling on the bit proceeding along for the opening half, came under heavier and heavier pressure while making his way on the turn, faced a three-ply challenge stepping into the stretch, was put to a hard drive, succumbed a sixteenth later and steadily backed away. THREEFIVEINDIA prompted the pacesetter from the two path, went about at the task from between opponents from the five-sixteenths pole to the head of the stretch before giving way. TALE OF S'AVALL entered the turn from the two path, chased the front runners positioned in the middle of others, got set down prior to the quarter pole, had no rally. ECONOMIC MODEL alternated between the inside route and the two path on the backstretch, chose the former as the way to go on the turn, was let out a notch and asked to pick it up at the three-eighths pole, commenced the stretch about five wide, came up empty. MYLUTE three wide leaving the turn, was already under a drive by the five-sixteenths marker, moved towards the outside until seven wide by the eighth pole, becoming the outermost of all, failed to rally appreciably. OCEAN KNIGHT strung out four to five wide, the widest of all on the turn, began the final furlong in the six path, with only one foe wider at this juncture, lacked a response.
