WORKAHOLIC away without apparent mishap, worked out a tuck into the two path coming up to the conclusion of the backstretch, kept watch on the fighting frontrunners within striking distance all throughout the run around the bend, got cued up spinning four wide into the lane, rider utilizing a strong grip on the right, displayed an inclination to lug in for most of the stretch run, yet managed to close in nonetheless, got steadied at two points, in midstretch and then just inside the sixteenth marker, wore down MISS IMPERIAL in the final strides to prove best. MISS IMPERIAL remained forwardly placed after an alert getaway, was patiently ridden three wide keeping an eye on a spirited tussle a short distance up ahead, picked up interest and crept up towards the duelers approaching the quarter pole, settled in at the head of the stretch and was set down, went by STONESINTHEROAD to emerge as the new leader at the eighth pole, felt the presence of the winner soon afterwards, offered resistance but got reeled in. STONESINTHEROAD along the inside route, got engaged in a duel with FORGOTTEN HERO right from the get go, continued to race as a team until a few jumps from the quarter pole, was put to a drive spinning into the stretch as the second place finisher was preparing to pounce, yielded at the furlong grounds, stayed on reasonably well in the final furlong to salvage the show. GUACAMOLE quickly spotted along the rail, tracked the battling twosome lightly hand, got switched over to more vigorous handling at the five-sixteenth pole, stepped into the stretch and had no rally. TWO DOZEN ROSES slow to settle, readily fell back racing along the backstretch, was sighted loping along two wide on the turn, shifted into path five travelling in the stretch, lacked the needed response. FORGOTTEN HERO sparred from command from path two for a half and gave way.
